In year 2005, Boo joins JDC (Jeju Free International City Development Center) in mission to establish first ever Science Park in Jeju Island. Another national project has brought him new challenges but with numbers of contribution to obstacles, he fulfills his mission and completes Jeju Science Park in year 2010. He now holds certificate for International Expert on STP Management issued by IASP. (International Association of Science Parks)

Since the beginning of his first project in Jeju, he has emphasized the importance of building "prepared infrastructure" for the future of Jeju. Preparation for future includes more than simple tourism but capacity to welcome corporate, projects and businesses.

He now is a General Director of Jeju Healthcare Town Project. It is a project to develop world renowned medical cluster that could welcome both patients and healthy people with future building technology to the island of Jeju. With his proven momentum, he strongly steps into another national challenge.

Taesun Kang, CEO of BLACK YAK and one of the most successful businessmen from Jeju Island, has special love for his hometown, saying Mt. Halla in Jeju brought him up. He thinks Mt. Halla taught him everything about mountaineering and took him to the Him alayas. He began climbing mountains with Korean climber Honggil Eum and Youngkil Hong in early 1970's. He also led the 2010 Annapurna expedition team with Ms. Eunsun Oh, the first woman climber to summit 14 8,000ers in 2010. According to him, mountaineering and business have a lot in common. He keeps challenging himself to find a best way to be a global top company as he learns life from mountains. He won the "Moran Medal" and "Jeju Culture Award" in 2012. He is also the author of "Summit in my heart" and "Keep challenging today."
